SUBJECT:

PURPOSE/BACKGROUND:

As a member of the National Alliance of Preservation Commissions (NAPC), we become part of a national network of historic preservation commissions, boards of architectural review, municipal staff, local and state preservation nonprofits, and everyday residents of historic districts who value their historic resources. The NAPC network provides support, resources, and assistance from other commissions and members. Members benefit from the ideas and experiences of local communities throughout the United States working to protect historic districts and landmarks through local legislation.

Renewal of the membership provides the Commission with the below benefits:

- The Alliance Review, a quarterly publication filled with timely articles that cover the issues local commissions and staff are dealing with on the front lines.
- Access to NAPC-L, NAPC's discussion group that connects you to local preservation commission members, staff and others across the United States.
- Free online continuing education webinars.
- Discounted rates to FORUM, NAPC's biennial conference for local preservation commissions and staff.
- Discounted rates to NAPC's biennial Summer Short Course.
- Access to a resource library of technical information related to historic preservation commissions.
- A voice for the commission in Washington, DC with the NAPCs national partners.
